

THE FOUNDATION

The IADC Foundation is proud to support the Inter-American Defense College's post-graduate academic programs and community. Since 2004, the IADC Foundation has been a non-partisan and nonprofit education foundation, building financial support for the academic program and extending the College's reach into the international community. We work closely with the IADC Alumni Association to enhance the connectivity to graduates, former advisors, staff members and friends that shared the unique experience of the College.

Inter-American Defense College Foundation Overview

The Inter-American Defense College Foundation is a 501(c)(3) organization dedicated to supporting the mission and initiatives of the Inter-American Defense College (IADC). The Foundation plays a vital role in enhancing the educational experience of IADC students and fostering regional cooperation and security.

Mission and Vision

Mission: To provide financial and logistical support to the IADC, enabling it to deliver high-quality education and professional development programs for senior military and civilian officials from OAS member states.

Vision: To be a cornerstone of support that empowers the IADC to be the leading institution for hemispheric security and defense education.

Key Initiatives

- Financial Aid: The Foundation provides financial assistance to ensure that students from the Western Hemisphere can attend the IADC.
- Research and Development: Funding research projects that address critical security and defense issues in the Americas.
- Infrastructure and Resources: Investing in the IADC's facilities and technological resources to create an optimal learning environment.

Impact and Contributions

The Foundation's support has been instrumental in advancing the IADC's educational programs and research activities, contributing to a deeper understanding of hemispheric security issues and fostering collaboration among OAS member states.

How to Get Involved

Individuals and organizations can support the Inter-American Defense College Foundation through donations, sponsorships, and participating in fundraising events. Contributions help sustain the IADC's mission and expand its impact across the Americas.

THE COLLEGE

Inter-American Defense College (IADC)

The Inter-American Defense College (IADC) is a prestigious institution located in Washington, D.C., founded in 1962. It serves as a center for military education and strategic studies for senior military and government officials from member countries of the Organization of American States (OAS).

The IADC offers a comprehensive curriculum focusing on international security, defense policy, and regional cooperation. It aims to enhance understanding and collaboration among military leaders across the Americas through academic courses, seminars, and practical exercises.

Graduates of the IADC contribute significantly to regional security by fostering relationships and sharing knowledge acquired during their studies.

The College emphasizes joint military operations, crisis management, and defense strategy, preparing leaders for complex security challenges in the Western Hemisphere.

Participants include military officers, diplomats, and government officials, reflecting the college's interdisciplinary approach to security and defense education.

Distinguished Graduates of the IADC

The Inter-American Defense College (IADC) has produced numerous distinguished graduates who have made significant contributions to their countries and the broader defense and security sectors: Generals and Admirals, Ambassadors and Senior Diplomats and Latin American Dignitaries. These individuals exemplify the leadership and strategic capabilities fostered by the IADC, contributing to hemispheric defense and security.
